LA BAITA - THE STORY

La Baita Biergarten was born in 2008 in Ispra as “La Baita di Franz,” a small restaurant specializing in German cuisine and Bavarian craft beer. In 2010, the Neumann family, originally from Bavaria, took over and grew the business, making it well-known in the area.

The first location, very small, had about 30 seats.

In 2015 the restaurant moved to Via Milite Ignoto 150, to a larger site with a spacious garden, from which the new name “La Baita Biergarten” (beer garden) comes.

The following year, rooms converted from the villa’s old barns were added as a small B&B.

The Neumann family, originally from Immetstad (Upper Allgäu, Bavaria), moved to Italy in 2001 to Ranco, attracted by the Italian Dolce Vita.

Noticing the lack of German traditions, the Brotzeit srl company was created, specializing in the import of Bavarian beer and typical German products — and so “La Deutsche Vita” was born...

THE CHEF FEBO RAVASI

Born and raised in the Province of Varese, Febo is deeply connected to Nordic culinary culture.

Being half Belgian, as a child he grew up in contact with both traditional Italian cuisine and that found beyond the Alps.

“Cooking means getting to know the culture and making the dish tell its true story.”

For him, it is essential to use high-quality products to achieve authentic flavors “like they used to be.”

WE INFORM...

All dishes are designed to guarantee higher quality in service, and we recommend minimizing variations to the dishes.
